Drawings

1. Figures 6,7, and 8 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). Corrected drawings in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.121(d)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. 2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Regarding Claim 1, Kuwajima et al shows (Figs. 1-3), a disk drive apparatus comprising a recording medium rotatably supported, rotation means for rotating the recording medium (12), a supporting arm (2) having a head (1) facing the recording medium, the supporting arm being rotatable about a bearing section (9) in a direction perpendicular to a recording face of the recording medium, radial driving means for one of rotating and linearly moving the supporting arm in a radial direction of the recording medium, and a ramp (110) for vertically moving the supporting arm between the bearing section and the head while the supporting arm one of rotates and linearly moves in the radial direction of the recording medium (Figure 10 shows radial movement).

5. Regarding Claim 2, Kuwajima et al shows (Figs. 1-3), the disk drive apparatus further comprising load-applying means (11) near the bearing section, the load-applying means applying load to the supporting arm in a direction approaching the recording medium.

6. Regarding Claim 3, Kuwajima et al shows (Figs. 1-3 and 10), the disk drive apparatus wherein the ramp (110) is means for keeping the head at a standby position apart from a surface of the recording medium when the recording medium stops rotating.

7. Regarding Claim 4, Kuwajima et al shows (Figs. 1-3), the disk drive apparatus wherein the ramp (110) is means for keeping the head at a standby position by making the head contact a surface of the disk when the recording medium stops rotating.

8. Regarding Claim 5, Kuwajima et al shows (Figs. 1-3), the disk drive apparatus, wherein a slider (1) is installed on the head, and the ramp removes a contact pressure occurred by the slider contacting a surface of the recording medium (12).

9. Regarding Claim 6, Kuwajima et al shows (Figs. 1-3), the disk drive apparatus, wherein a bearing section (9) includes a pivot bearing (10) having a pair of protrusions (11a,11b) contacting the supporting arm, and a point where the protrusions of the pivot bearing and the supporting arm contact is a center of gravity of the supporting arm (Col 5, line 32-40).

10. Regarding Claims 7 and 8, Kuwajima et al shows (Fig. 10), the disk drive apparatus, wherein the ramp (110) is disposed at a position not interfering with the disk.

11. Regarding Claim 9, Kuwajima et al shows (Figs. 10), the disk drive apparatus, wherein the ramp (110) vertically moves the supporting arm (2) at a position outside of a lengthwise central axis of the supporting arm.

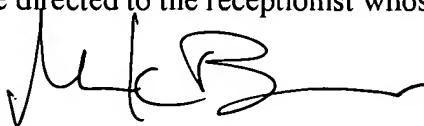

12. Regarding Claim 10, Kuwajima et al shows (Fig. 2), the disk drive apparatus, wherein a line passing a rotation center of the rotation means rotating the supporting arm in a radial direction of the recording medium and a line connecting the pair of protrusions of the pivot bearing (line fro Pa to Pb) in the bearing section cross.
